WASHINGTON, June 1, 1841. Washington, June 1, 1988.
In seventeen days, Congress will adjourn, and the intermediate time will be the busiest days of the session, fore business will be done than during all the days of fore business will be done than during all the days of its session paat.

The Scutte have disposed of the Tariff bill of Mr. IcDuffic, under peculiar circumstances. They have ecided, in the first place, upon an amendment moved of Mr. Allen, of Ohio, that "the Tariff of 1842 is xor minst, and ought xor to be reduced." The vote upon his amendment you will see, by the report of proceedings, was 18 for the amendment, and 24 against it.

Mr. Wright, of New York, after voting, and saying, some of chis friends in New York, have argued, votes ow that this act is "unjust, and ought to be reduced." Mr. Wright will not find it an casy matter to escape from this dilemms. Messrs. Bachanan and Surreon, of Pennsylvania, who voted also for the Tariff of 1342, more consistently than the Senator from New York, vote now that the Tariff of 1342 is "not unjust, and not to be reduced."

Mr. Niles, of Connecticut, ventured to vote with the ultra free trade members, and to put his vote upon the record against the Tariff of 1812. It is to be hoped that his friends in Connecticut, who have haraburged the People so much in regard to the Tariff, will not put this vote down to incanity.

The Senate then voted, 33 to 4, that Mr. McDuffle's bill, being a revenue measure, could not originate in the Senate, and without a division, it was indefinitely estpaned.

The buil of the Senator from South Carolina, which as been four months under consideration in the Sente, is thus dead and buried. Free Trade has received ate, is thus dead and buried. Free Trade has received another blow, and as severe a one from the Senate of the United States as it received from the Representatives of the People at the other wing of the Capatol.

The discussion in the Senate upon this bill has been a very able one, and in some respects, peculiar. It has proved the progress of opinion southward for the projective policy. Mr. Berrien, of Georgia, and Messrs. Rives and Archer, of Virginia, have holdly vimilicated this policy. Delaware, Marvisud, Virginia, North Carolina, Louisiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, more than one-half of the slave States, are tariff States! This is a triumph of opinion that does honor to the intelligence of the States who have thus embraced the truth and foresteen error, and that gives abundant promise that the protective policy has become a permanent principle of the country, and that, too, better than all, without any sectional division of opinion in regard to the measure itself. Truth has thus conquered prejudices and scattered ignorance.

scenario and revision of parameter regardines and scattered ignorance.

During the discussion, the policy of Protection has been ably defeaded upon the one side by Messrs, Evans, Choate, Bates, Simmens, Phelps, Huntington, Dayton, Miller, Rives, Archer, Berrien, and opposed, in greater or less degree, by Messrs, Woodbury, Atherton, Wright, McDuffle, Colquitt, Bagby, and Benton.

The principles of free trade and direct taxation have been defended by some of the most distinguished Locofoco Senators in the body, and that, too, since the nemination of James K. Folk, a free trade man, for the Presidency, by the Baltimore Convention. Mr. McDuffle, representing a State ment charmed with these free principles, and most gratified with the nomination of Mr.
Polk, at Baltimore, has publicly advecated direct taxation as the only principle that can save the Government from protection and corruption, which he is pleased to use as synonymous terms.

when trom processing an corruption, which is a pecased to use as synonymous terms.

The closing discussion was the most exciting of the closing discussion was the most exciting of the closing a new form from Mr. McDuffie, and a most violent, abusive and sulgar attack upon Massachusetts and Mr. Closite.

Mr. McDuffie threatens Nullification, by resigni-Mr. McDuffe threatens Nollification, by resigning his seat in the U.S. Senate, obtaining an election to the Legislature of South Carolina, and there introducing a bill imposing a duty of 10 per cent. upon articles now imported free from duty. The Mr. McDuffle who proposes to do this is the same Mr. McDuffle who last week introduced a joint resolution to nunex Texas and a part of Mexico to the United States, and the same Mr. McDuffle also, who, as Governor of South Carolina, as calously opposed the measure he now so earnestly ad-attack of Mr. McDuffie upon Mr. Choate was so The attack of Mr. McDuffie upon Mr. Choate was so much beneath the dignity of a Senator and the Senate-chamber, that it would have done no credit to a pothouse politician at the polls. It was justly characterized by Mr. Choate in reply, so far as it was personal, as undignified, unbecoming, rude, and extraordinary, a speech, the jokes of which had been drawn from Joe Miller, the race-course, the bar-room, the cock-pit, and the barn-yard. Mr. Choate was then provoked to answer Mr. McDuffie's misrepresentations of his argument, and he did so in a gentlemanly and pointed manner, and with abundant evidence of his positions.

ment, and he did so in a gentlemanly and pointed manner, and with abundant evidence of his positions.

Mr. McDuffie then excused his first assaulta upon the ground that Massachusetts men had always been "overbearing, arrogant, insolent, self-conceited," &c. Massachusetts men will be surprised to hear this, and most surprised that South Carolina should have been the complainant—South Carolina should have been the complainant—South Carolina, whose public men have exer been of the ultra-State's right stamp, and the most haughty and revengeful in the Union. Mr. McDuffie, too, and only in qualified sense, told Mr. Choate that he had studiously withheld the truth and that he had no brains to make an argument. What he had said was weak, absurd, flimsy, ridiculous, and so on.

Mr. Choate said he would not continue the discussion longer. It had degenerated into mere abuse, and he had too much respect for the GLELERMEN of the hody, and too much SELE-RESECT to hold further parlow.

LOCOFOCO WATCHWORDS.—The Locofoco leaders are trying hard to raily their party, under the cry of POLK and DALLAS—FREE TRADE and TEXAS.

Mr. Wright was in the Capitol when the newe of his nomination as Mr. Polk's Vice President arrived there. He immediately returned for answer, by the Telegraph, that he declined the nomination. The Convention, in reply, requested him to reconsider and withdraw his refusal. He answered again that his mind was made up, and that he most peremptorily decline the nomination. He was then informed, by telegraph, in return, that the Convention had adjourned for the day, but that prior to the adjournment a Committee of five members with him on the salipient, and would be here in the morning.—[Nat. Intelligencer.]

Prentice states that a venerable and well known

Method at General Conference.—Bishop Andrew, which has occupied the attention of the Methodist General Conference about a fortnight, and which has a wakened so deep an interest in all parts of the country, was on Satorday morning decided by the passage (110 to 65) of a resolution, declaring it to be the sense of the Conference that the Bishop desist from the exercise of his office so long as he is connected with slavery. What course the South will now pursue is of course unknown, except so far as relates to her determination to protest sgainst the setion of the Conference. During the debate the Southern members have declared that division would be inevitable if the resolution were adopted, but in what form the division will occur, if indeed it shall take place at all, it is impossible at this time.

Of his party, and neglecting his official duties to spend his time in electioneering—he ought to be removed.

From his high station to a more retrieve at the said to have served the State profitably, however; and this retrieves and this retrieves and this retrieves and that after such varied and arduous duties.

The Madisonian, of Saturday, says:—"We have not the singhtest doubt but that Mr Polk will declare, and that Mr Van Buren will suppose Mr Clay in the Northern States, and the Texas candidate in the South and West."

Whig Central Committee:

As a Whig Convention is soon to be called to proposed for Governor if I remain silent, I take the Also, -W. I. The reason for doing this, having held the office but one year, although undoubtedly anticipated, should be stated.

The overwhelming affliction with which it has pleased God to visit me, has rendered me unfit to be the Chief Magistrate of this intelligent State, where there are so many of far superior qualifications, and whose minds are not impaired by old tions, and whose minds are not impaired by old age and mental suffering.

In retiring forever from Public life, I desire to express my gratitude to the People of the State for the offices which, by their representatives, they have confered upon me.

Whereupon the following resolutions were unanimously adopted.

he had too much respect for the GENTLEMEN of the body, and too much sell-nesserict to hold further parley upon the enlight.

Mr. McDuffe in a tempest of passion, and great in solence of manner, said in his seat that he could express his opinions somewhere else, if he desired.

The Chair called to order, and Mr. Choate said he was gratified that he had at least made the Senator answer him with some seriousness, if not with any courtery.

Mr. Bates, who had come in for a share of Mr. McDuffie's attention, replied in a few words, and Mr. Evans closed the debate in a few words, omitting the replies he had a right to make by calling for the question. Then came the result you have above, and a double rejection of this attempt to destroy the Tariff, and establish free trade.

—The manner in which our Locofoce friends speak of each other is so trathful that we cannot forbear making an occasional extract from their writings. The Washington Spectator, Mr. Calhoun's special organ, says:

ACCEPTANCE OF MR. DALLAS.—The Philadelphia Pennsylvanian says.—Early yesterday morning, Mr. Dallas was waited upon by Governor Fairfield of Maine, Senator Walker of Mississippi, and a number of other delegates to the National Convention, who amounced to him through Governor Fairfield, the choice which had been made, and Mr. Dallas, though taken by surprise, signified his willingness to accept the nomination proffered him by his democratic friends, thinking it due to the party to allow his name to be thus used when they considered it advantageous to the cause.
